PROPOSITION 14

The AFLCIO in California fought hard for legislation to combat discrimination in housing. But two-thirds of the voters in 1964 succumbed to the siren song of the California Real Estate Association, which said that a man's house is his castle and he could sell it or rent it to anybody he pleased.

Supporters of fair housing said at the time that any right is subject to limitation for the public good. They said that just as important as the right of private property is the protection of the 14th Amendment to the United States Constitution, which prohibits states from denying citizens equal protection under the law.

Now the United States Supreme Court, upholding the California Supreme Court, has ruled unconstitutional Proposition 14, the state initiative measure of 1964.

The court majority's opinion, written by Justice Byron R. White, pointed out that Proposition 14 not only eliminated the Rumford Fair Housing Act of 1963 and parts of the Unruh Civil Rights Act of 1959. It also wrote "the write to discriminate, including the right to discriminate on racial grounds," into the state's constitution.

Thus, Justice White pointed out, those practicing racial discrimination had the sanction of the state constitution, free from judicial, executive or legislative regulation. And another vote of the people would have been required to eliminate this blank check for discrimination.

PLEA TO LEGISLATURE

The U.S. Supreme Court ruling on fair housing has not stopped the bigots or the California Real Estate Association—who in some cases are one and the same.

There is still a strong campaign to persuade the State Legislature to repeal or change the Rumford Act—despite the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling upholding it.

Californians were misled by slick public relations techniques during the Proposition 14 campaign into making bigotry the official policy of our state.

The United States Supreme Court has clarified the issues. The basic law of the land is to provide equal protection under law to all citizens, and no state should deny any citizen this protection.

Our legislators in Sacramento can help their state hold its head high once again by forgetting about the current rash of bigot-inspired attempts to change or eliminate the Rumford Act.

AC Transit agreement; recommend acceptance

Union members to vote on 60 cent AC offer

A tentative settlement was reached between Carmen 192 and the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District Tuesday morning.

The union was to submit an AC proposal to its members with a negotiating committee recommendation that they accept it.

Under the proposal, the union would receive a three year contract retroactive to June 1, with pay increases for drivers of 20 cents an hour each year and an added cost-of-living raise effective Jan. 1, 1969.

Other gains include added sick leave, a change in report time pay, funeral leave and improvements in benefits and language.

The major dispute came to a head a week ago Wednesday night when the union struck AC Transit for 15 minutes before being stopped by a temporary restraining order obtained by the district from Judge Leonard Diden, presiding judge of the Alameda County Superior Court.

Richard K. Groulx, executive assistant secretary of the Alameda County Central Labor Council, played a key role in settlement of the dispute.

He told council delegates Monday night that negotiations between the time of issuance of the court order and the tentative settlement totalled about 24 hours.

The brief strike was prompted by union efforts to obtain pay parity with San Francisco. Starting July 1, bus drivers there will receive $3.73 an hour. AC drivers until the settlement received $3.31.

Groulx explained that San Francisco bus drivers' wages are geared to the top three wage scales in the industry in the United States. At the present time, all are in New York.

Two years ago, Division 192 came within four cents an hour of San Francisco, but drivers across the bay have received added increases since then not matched by AC Transit.

This year, Groulx said, AC directors refused to make an offer even approaching the pay what the San Francisco drivers will receive starting July 1. On this members unanimously rejected the contract offer last week and voted to go on strike on Wednesday.

COURT ORDER

After the court order was issued, however, Groulx pointed out, Division 192 members were in the position of "operating under a restraining order under rates they did not want to accept."

This Monday, Division 192 offered to settle for 25 cents an hour each year under a three year contract, with an added cost-of-living increase. The transit union rejected the offer.

248 Lodge 1546 members receive awards for service

Continuous service awards were presented to 248 members of Automotive Machinists 1546 at a party given by the union at Goodman's Jack London Square, Oakland.

The awards, for service ranging from 15 to 45 years, were presented by Matthew DeMore, general secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Machinists, AFLCIO, before some 600 members and friends of Lodge 1546.

DeMore, who came from Washington, D.C., to present the awards, was the main speaker of the evening.

Other speakers included E. R. White, general vice-president of the IAM, and DeWayne (Bud) Williams, general business representative of Lodge 1546.

Scotty Bendle, charter member of the lodge, received an award for 45 years' continuous service.

Also present to receive awards were five members with 35 years' service, 69 with 25 years, and 173 with 15 years.

Arrangements were made by Financial Secretary M. F. Damas, who was master of ceremonies.

Installation set for Dick Groulx

Richard K. Groulx will be installed as executive secretary-treasurer of the Central Labor Council June 19.

Outgoing Executive Secretary-Treasurer Robert S. Ash cast a unanimous white ballot Monday night for Groulx, who was unopposed in nominations two weeks ago. Ash also made the motion to hold the installation at the meeting of the 19th.

SCOTTY BENDLE, center in top picture, is congratulated for 45 years' continuous service to East Bay Automotive Machinists 1546 by Matthew DeMore, left, general secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Machinists, and E. R. White, IAM general vice-president. DeMore, center in bottom picture, and M. F. Damas, Lodge 1546 financial secretary, are shown with five Lodge 1546 members honored for 35 years' service. Shown are, from left, William McCuen, LeRoy Lewis, Al Solon, DeMore, Dale Hummel, William Spicer and Damas.

Affirmative action program planned by building trades

Leaders of Building Trades Councils in six Bay Area counties are meeting to plan an affirmative action program to answer criticism levied against construction unions by equal opportunity groups.

This was revealed to the Alameda County Building Trades Council Tuesday night by the council's Business Representative J. L. Childers.

Childers denied that building trades unions in Alameda County discriminate. He admitted that at one time some did. But the problem now is lack of jobs, and in many cases a scarcity of minority group applicants for the apprenticeship openings that are available, he said.

The building trades official made his comments in a report on a meeting held at Berkeley May 20 by the General and Specialty Contractors Association.

The purpose of the meeting was to work out a program of compliance with federal Executive Order 11246, which forbids discrimination on government projects.

Childers differed sharply with some of the statements made at the conference and with a document issued through the U.S. Labor Department in Washington, D.C., by Edward C. Sylvester Jr., director of operational plans for the Bay Area Contract Construction Program. Copies of the document were distributed at the Berkeley meeting.

Several other union business agents attended the conference, and some of them commented briefly, supporting Childers' statements, including Thomas Sweeney, business manager, Electrical Workers 595, and Tony Schiano, business representative, Laborers 304.

UNION CONDITIONS

During his report, Childers emphasized that unions represent working people, and he said building trades unions "are not going to be cast in the role of anti-Negro."

He added: "Nor are we going to let people break down union working conditions under the guise of equal opportunity."

HOW TO BUY

Setting back odometers

By SIDNEY MARGOLIUS

Labor Consumer Advisor for Labor Journal

Copyright 1967

Does that polished up used car sitting on the lot you visited the other day really have only 30,000 miles on it, as the odometer says?

There is increasing evidence that some used car dealers do turn back the odometer, and — depending on local laws and officials' attitudes — the authorities may not be able to do anything about it. In some cases they may not even be willing to try.

In one Eastern metropolitan area recently, a man sold his old car to a used car dealer. It had 96,000 miles on it. Subsequently, his son noticed the car all spruced up on the lot. Out of curiosity, he looked at the odometer. It read 36,000 miles.

The former owner called the local weights and measurements department to complain about this deception. The officials said nothing could be done about it. As they interpreted the local laws, there was no deterrent to turning back an odometer.

THE PRACTICE seems prevalent enough so that in several states recently, bills have been introduced into legislatures, and state agencies have warned about this practice.

In New Jersey, the Consumers League has endorsed pending legislation providing for regulation and inspection of used car odometers.

In Massachusetts, the Consumers' Council has warned the public to "watch out for phony mileage," also purported bargains which may have been taxis or rental cars, police cars or fleet cars. Sometimes these may be sold as so-called "executive cars."

Used car dealers are fighting the prospect of odometer regulation. One dealer told an Eastern county official, "You'll ruin us."

Dealers also argue that if they can't turn back odometers, they can't pay owners as much for their used cars. Besides, they say, if they don't do it, the owners will anyway.

USED CARS are big business. Two out of three cars sold are used. There's nothing wrong with buying a good used car if you buy it from a reliable dealer who really has his own service department to back up his claims of reconditioning. A fairly late model in good condition saves you the high depreciation of the first two or three years of new car ownership.

But people buying from high pressure dealers who feature very low down payments, or none at all, can take a beating. They get beat on the car itself, on the insurance they buy with it, and on the finance charges. Often they pay hundreds of dollars, only to see the car repossessed and their wages garnisheed to pay a deficiency balance and legal costs.

In Cook County, Illinois, Jerome Schur, special assistant to Circuit Court Chief Judge John Boyle, analyzed the finance charges on 164 used car contracts on which judgments had been filed. The average was the equivalent of 31 per cent a year true interest. One out of seven charged 50 to 100 per cent true interest, and five were 104, 135, 144, 155 and 283 per cent.

EVEN THE CASH prices sometimes seemed to exceed the cars' real value, such as $1138 for a five year old Rambler, and $395 for an 11 year old Mercury. There was evidence that by the time the cars were repossessed, the buyers already had paid the real worth. They had made an average down payment of 21 per cent of the inflated prices and some monthly payments. But after down payment, monthly payments and repossession, the average buyer still owed 55 per cent of the cash price, Schur found.

There were also clues to the continued existence of the "pack" here, as in at least several other states, despite the long fight against it by the FTC and Better Business Bureaus.

The "pack" is the practice of lumping together finance charge, insurance and other charges so the buyer cannot tell what he is paying for each. Illinois permits combining finance and insurance charges. When the contracts did this, they found the charges tended to be about 10 per cent higher than when these items were stated separately.

So concerned have consumer groups and unions become about used car deception that the Denver Area Labor Council asked a long-established local dealer to advise members at a public meeting. The dealer warned that no one can give you an "amazing bargain" in a used car, and that some dealers actually seek out bankrupts. These operators know that the bankrupts can't go into bankruptcy for six years more, and so they can be clubbed with garnishees.

Goiters in children and young adults can be reduced 40 to 95 per cent by iodized salt, according to a United Nations report.

Alameda County Building Trade Council (vote for two only): Frank Larson, 262; Don McFetridge, 184; Thomas Dulle, 161.

As many of our members are not familiar with the union's hiring procedure relative to the agreement between our two associations, including the Refrigeration Agreement and the California Short Line Agreement, this writer will run a series of columns on a weekly basis, explaining the hiring procedure of these two agreements:

The labor agreement between the Mechanical Contractors Association of Northern California, Inc.; the Industrial Contractors and the Refrigeration Contractors Association provides the following, and we respectfully suggest that you familiarize yourself with these hiring hall procedures, which are also posted on the union's bulletin board, and file for future reference:

ARTICLE II RECOGNITION OF BARGAINING AGENTS AND EMPLOYMENT PROCEDURE

Section 1. Recognition of Union. The Union is recognized as the exclusive Collective Bargaining Representative of all employees covered by this Agreement.

(a) No employee, unless engaged in jobbing and repair work, will be allowed to transfer from one job site to another job site upon completion of the contract for which the employee was dispatched originally.

Section 2. Union Security. All employees covered by this Agreement must, as a condition of employment, apply for membership in and become members of, and maintain membership in, the Union within the Union within eight (8) days of the commencement of their employment or the effective date of this Agreement, whichever is the later. This Section shall be enforced to the extent permitted by law.

Section 3. Employment Procedure. (1) The Individual Employers shall secure all employees required in their performance of the work covered by this Agreement through the office of the Union subject to the limitations and exclusions in Article I.

(2) Satisfactory and competent men will be furnished in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement and the employment procedure (Article II, Section 3, of this Agreement) within forty-eight (48) hours (Saturdays, Sundays and Holidays excepted) of the time they are requested if they are available and in the event they cannot be or are not furnished with in such period, the Individual Employer may employ any person, but shall arrange for a dispatch to be obtained for him from the office of the Union within twenty-four (24) hours of the commencement of such employment and such dispatch shall upon request be issued to the employee.

(3) Preference in employment shall be given to persons who have been employed in Alameda and/or Contra Costa Counties upon the type of work covered by this Agreement.

For the purpose of this Section 3, only, there shall be three (3) classes of employees, as follows:

CLASS A — Shall consist of Journeymen Steamfitters who have been employed within the geographical jurisdiction of Steamfitters Local Union 342 on the type of craft work covered by this Agreement for a period of at least 1500 hours (and/or who have been available for employment by being registered on the "A" List) for each year during the two (2) years next preceding their registration in the territory covered by this Agreement.

CLASS B — Shall consist of Journeymen Steamfitters who have been employed in the State of California and are registered on their Class "A" list.

Class C — Shall consist of all other qualified journeymen steamfitters.

(4) The Union shall maintain adequate registration facilities at the Union Office for employees and applicants for employment to register for work.

(5) All Journeymen will be dispatched to an Employer's job site or shop from the availability list on a 50-50 per cent basis. That is, the Employer may request one journeyman by name and for every one journeyman requested by the employer by name, one journeyman will be dispatched from the availability list, starting with the first man on the list.

The same 50-50 per cent basis shall be applied to the hiring of apprentices.

All supervision requested by name will be considered part of the Employer's allotted percentage of name calls.

At any time the ratio on the job deviates from the original ratio of calls by name and dispatches from the availability list, any new Journeymen shall be called either by name or all from the availability list until the job ratio is again brought into conformity with the provisions of this section.

Senior General Foremen, General Foremen and Foremen must be members of the United Association.

Local 342 Golf Club Officials wish to announce to potential Arnold Palmers and Jack Nicklauses, the following golf dates as it pertains to the club tournament dates this summer and fall.

Ironworkers 378

BY GEORGE A. TAYLOR

In the last press release, I related some of the difficulties we are having with Bay Area Rapid Transit on the Broadway portion of the subway. Of the three companies involved, only Massman Co. of Kansas City has a subcontractor (Statewide Steel Co.) with Ironworkers employed at this time.

The dispute with the three companies, Early, Winton & Drake, Pirini Corp. and Massman Co., is over the erection of temporary bridges at the intersections, and also the bridge that covers the tube while construction is in process on Broadway from 21st to 10th streets. On this work, there are approximately five rodmen and no structural men, as of May 15, 1967.

On the Grove-Shafter street and the Grand avenue overpass, the Guy F. Atkinson Co., with the assistance of the Carpenters International Union, reversed a job-site agreement between the Ironworkers business agent and the Carpenters business agent on the rigging and setting of steel forms with a composite crew. The Guy F. Atkinson Co. took the position that the "Twelve Point Agreement" did not apply on highways.

I wish to remind the members about the Oakland Coliseum, where the Guy F. Atkinson Co. subbed all the tubular supports plus the structural beams, along with the decking to Russell & Russell Co., which does not as a rule employ Ironworkers. This is a portion of the bleacher seating that is moved into place during football games. In the arena, structural supports for the temporary bleachers was also let to a company that does not hire Ironworkers. The Ironworkers did not claim the seats, which belonged to the Carpenters as per agreement.

The reason that I am pointing out these unjust assignments of work by the aforementioned contractors is to show just how detrimental it is to the building trades unions if their jurisdiction is given to some other craft.

Your trust funds, which include welfare, dental, vacation and pension plans, which have taken years to obtain, will all go down the drain if these unfair practices continue. If you think this cannot happen to you, take a look at John L. Lewis' Miners and see what happened to them. The Miners have very few benefits and have lost most of their membership by the mines going non-union.

The following members have been reported ill: Jim Coleman, Doctors' Hospital; Nick K. Newton, Donald R. Richards, Billy W. McClure, Wayne Green.

Stokes upheld, school district loses in transfer case appeal

George Stokes, vice-president of Oakland Teachers 771, has won the final round in his fight against a transfer contrary to Oakland Unified School District rules.

Stokes and Local 771 were upheld by the State District Court of Appeal. The appellate court agreed with the ruling issued by Superior Judge Spurgeon Avakian two years ago.

The case dates back to the first day of summer vacation, 1964. Stokes was transferred against his wishes and against school regulations.

The school district took the position that its rules were subject to administrative interpretation.

In affirming Judge Avakian's decision, the higher court upheld the union's position and struck down such arbitrary actions by school officials.

The decision was written by Justice Agee and concurred in by Justices Shoemaker and Taylor.

It held, in part:

"Rules and regulations adopted by a board of education are, in effect, a part of a teacher's employment contract and the teacher is entitled to their enforcement."

The appellate court's decision reiterated that of Judge Avakian, who said:

"Among the purposes of a board of education in adopting rules governing transfer of personnel is the obvious one of improving morale (and, consequently, the performance of teachers) by establishing fair procedures and criteria which minimize the risk of arbitrary or prejudiced decisions or decisions based on incomplete or inaccurate facts or misunderstandings."

Stokes was transferred from Castlemont to Fremont High School. According to Local 771 President-elect Eugene Horowitz, he will now be returned to Castlemont.

Newspaper Guild launches minority group job drive

The Human Rights Committee of the San Francisco-Oakland Newspaper Guild has launched a campaign to win jobs for members of minority groups as reporters, photographers and advertising salesmen.

It has sent a list of 43 recent journalism school graduates from minority groups to city editors of Bay Area Newspapers.

The list was compiled by the American Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, from information supplied by journalism schools.

One of the candidates, Walterene Jackson, a 1967 graduate of San Francisco State College, has already been hired by the San Francisco Examiner, according to Jerry Burns, the San Francisco-Oakland Guilds' Human rights chairman.

State Federation to hold summer school in Berkeley

The California Labor Federation will hold its summer school on the Berkeley campus of the University of California from July 30 through Aug. 4.

The theme will be "The Role of Government in Our Economy and Welfare—Challenges and Issues," according to Secretary-Treasurer Thomas L. Pitts.

State tax policies, labor's stake in public spending, social welfare and insurance programs, and the needs of workers in the 1960s will be among topics discussed.

Sessions will also be aimed at improving leadership skills and increasing unionists' understanding of problems confronting labor.

The program has been developed by the State AFL-CIO in cooperation with the Centers for Labor Research and Education at U.C., the AFL-CIO Department of Education and the Statewide Joint Labor-University Committee.

The school will be open to any union member. Registration fee, including food, lodging and materials, is $71.75-$81.75, depending upon accommodations.

Itliong sues JBS for $2 million

Larry Itliong, assistant director of the AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, is suing the John Birch Society, its leaders and its publication, "American Opinion," for $2 million.

Itliong seeks $1 million general damages and $1 million exemplary damages because, he says, "American Opinion" called him a Communist in its June, 1966, issue.

In a suit filed in San Francisco Superior Court, Itliong emphasized that he is not a Communist, and he has never been one. He said "American Opinion" called him one "out of ill will and hatred."

Airline told not to discriminate

American Airlines can't discriminate — against married stewardesses, that is.

Mrs. Mayfield appealed the decision, charging that American Airlines practices discrimination against married women. She was upheld in a recent ruling.

Esther asks industry, government to meet safety responsibilities

Pickets posted at Black Angus restaurant, bar

The Black Angus restaurant, 380 First St., Oakland, seems to be trying to set a record for non-unionism, according to officials of local involved.

It was picketed by the building trades during construction because non-union construction workers were on the job.

And now the bar and restaurant are "100 per cent non-union," according to Steve Revilak and Jack Faber of the Local Joint Board of Culinary Workers and Bartenders.

They said non-union college students are serving as waiters and bartenders under wages and conditions which do not match union contracts, and non-union musicians have been performing on Friday and Saturday nights.

Picketing by culinary unions began May 23.

Negro apprentices

A new report shows Negroes continue to be hindered by denial of entry into some apprenticeship programs, as well as lack of information and unrealistic standards, but once a Negro enters a program he experiences little, if any, discrimination, according to the U.S. Labor Department.

Chaudet returns from Far East journey with port delegation

Joe W. Chaudet, general manager of the East Bay Labor Journal, returned recently from Japan, where he attended the convention of the International Association of Ports and Harbors with a delegation from the Port of Oakland.

Chaudet, a member of the Oakland Board of Port Commissioners surveyed shipping facilities in Japan, the Philippines and Hong Kong.

He and Commissioners Emmett Kilpatrick, a member of Musicians 6, and Edward Brown, an attorney, conferred with Japanese shipping companies about the possibility of locating more containerized cargo operations in Oakland.

They also met with the Japanese minister of transportation concerning Oakland's facilities.

Sander wins balloting as Cooks 228 secretary—succeeds Hub Badger

Pat Sander, first vice-president of the Central Labor Council, has been elected secretary-business manager of Cooks 228.

Sander was formerly a business representative for Local 228 for many years. He was appointed Secretary pro-tem in April following the resignation of H. J. (Hub) Badger for health reasons.

The election, held last week, was for the remainder of Badger's three year term. Badger, who had been secretary since the union was chartered in 1939, had just been re-elected in January.

Chaudet said they stressed the fact that Oakland has new containerized cargo terminals and is located on the mainland side of San Francisco Bay, close to main line railroads, freeways and the Metropolitan Oakland International Airport.

The Oakland group, which also included Executive Director Ben E. Nutter and Attorney Kerwin Rooney of the Port of Oakland, visited Oakland's sister city, Fukuoka, and Osaka and Tokyo-Yokohama, all of which have modern port facilities.

KEEP YOUR EXPERIENCED FINANCIAL SECRETARY-TREASURER IN THE OFFICE SINCE YOU ARE GOING TO HAVE A NEW BUSINESS AGENT

I was asked the other day why I did not try to attend the meetings out of town or convention. I do not feel both the financial secretary and the business representative should be away at the same time, thereby leaving the business of the union to someone not in close contact with the affairs of the union.

An International officer told us the other night that anyone running for office was doing so for personal gain. I, for one, agree with him. Take the money away and see how many run. That brings something else to mind. Three candidates running for office this time attended the convention where the pension plan for business representatives and financial secretaries was passed. Just a coincidence, maybe. Both of my opponents were delegates to that convention.

Printing Specialties Union

BY FREDRICK T. SULLIVAN

The May issue of the Specialty Worker contains some very interesting statistics on the referendum election that was conducted on the question of disposing of the Pressmen's Home in Tennessee.

The members of our local unions did not take too much interest in the question, and the union officers felt that the matter was really one that the Specialty Unions should not be voting upon as we have little occasion to use the printing school that is located upon the premises and which is of great benefit to the web and commercial unions.

We voted in the various plants on the question, but only 26 per cent of the membership of Local 882 showed enough interest to vote 158 to 132 to dispose of the home, out of a membership of 1,128.

San Francisco Local 24, a commercial union that should be interested in the question of the sale of the training school, had 12 per cent of the members vote 51 to 37 to dispose of the home, out of a membership of 728.

Los Angeles Local 78, a commercial union had 2.1 per cent of the members vote 24 to 2 to dispose of the home, out of a membership of 910.

Los Angeles Local 388, a Printing Specialties union, had 75 per cent of the members vote 2446 to 204 to dispose of the home, out of a membership of 3,508.

New York Local 447, a Printing Specialties union, had 90 per cent of the members vote 2044 to 114 to dispose of the home, out of a membership of 2383.

The International Union is posed of 123,032 members, of which 38 per cent, or 47,045 voted. They voted 24,554 to 20,164 to dispose of the home. The question carried by 4,390 votes.

The incomprehensible fact from the recitation of the above figures is how the commercial unions, who are the most directly involved in the loss of the training school, should show such little interest by the percentage voting, contrasted to Local 388 and Local 447, where it is such a burning issue that from 75 to 90 per cent of the membership expressed themselves?

Of course, it must be remembered that these are the former locals of Don McCaughan and Sol Fisko, our two International Union vice presidents for the Specialty Branch, and they are persuasive speakers.

Strange as it seems, friends of our who are in Local 388 in Los Angeles state that to their knowledge, the members did not vote in the plants, and they did not even know that an election was taking place in which three out of four of their union brothers were voting

Women's Aux. 26

BY ERMINE SULLIVAN

Tuesday, June 13, at 7:30 p.m. is the time for our next meeting, to be held at the home of Gwen Frate, 1325 147th Ave., San Leandro, phone 351-7093.

We will vote for delegate and alternate delegate for the coming convention, Sept. 2-7 at Colorado Springs.

At the May meeting, Wilbur Leonard of Oakland Typographical Union installed the following officers:

Nettie Leonard, president; Lucille Kramar, vice-president; Gwen Frate, secretary; Betty Bowdish, treasurer; Allen e Grove, guide; Elizabeth Fee, chaplain; Ermine Sullivan, press correspondent; Evelyn Wolters, Elizabeth Fee, Dorothy Dye and Ermine Sullivan, Executive Board.

As we write our notes, we are advised that Charles Bowdish is responding to treatment at Alameda Hospital after collapsing at work; Chester Allen has undergone recent surgery, and Sally Wyatt's husband is recuperating at home after surgery.

AFSCME, Local 371 'Info'

BY NAT DICKERSON

We thank Brother Carl Oliver, foreman of tragic Wurster Hall, for many of the ideas incorporated into this week's column.

Many of the agreements with the administration are allowed to die a slow death because signed bulletins promised are seldom delivered.

1. One important item is the matter of custodial foreman for the custodians at the Richmond Field Station. The custodians working there are under the supervision of a carpenter or some other craftsman. This matter was promised to be looked into, but so far nothing more has been heard about it.

2. The supervisors seem to have a policy of giving certain men all the chances there are to work overtime. Many others are complaining that they would like an opportunity to work overtime, too, once in awhile.

3. Local 371 would like to know from the administration how the projected programs for supervisory and foremanship training are coming along.

4. The local is very critical of the way in which the promotional interviews are being conducted and is also concerned about the manner in which promotions are being awarded.

5. Another matter the union will bring up for future discussion is the pattern and type of interviews given to applicants for custodial employment. From the evidence, it appears that the administration is injecting a modicum of apathy toward union affiliation, instead of the neutral stance it is committed to.

It will be a welcome day when neutralism has no validity, either.

Should anyone take the time and interest to observe the schedules of many of the professors and students on campus, it would be astoundingly apparent to them that there is no comparison between university schedules and those of high or elementary schools. By the same token, it would not occur to them that the university administration would base the salaries of university custodians on data obtained from surveys of unified school districts. After all, the greatest impact of this excessive traffic is borne by the custodians and no one else.

Everyone knows that the University of California represents the greatest asset to the state, and if the principles and banner it, to whom may we turn?

The efforts of Council 49 on our behalf are beginning to show fruit, especially in the field of legislation. And we are also happy to state that all the "dead cats" from negotiation sessions are now in the hands of an able business representative, person-fied by Bob McLane, Council 49 area representative.

He seems very anxious to grapple with the problems Local 371 has with the university, and we have a feeling his efforts will be successful. The writer was very impressed by quotes from an address by John B. McKitterick, vice-president of the General Electric Co. This address was delivered to the annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Electrical Association. We won't go into the details of the address, but suffice it to say it took a great deal of leadership are not carried by courage to commit the world of business to the role of correcting the mistakes of government by making a genuine and realistic contribution to underdeveloped countries and to the impoverished (materially, culturally, etc.) Negro of America.

This item is to be found in a very important local paper of Friday, April 26, on page 16. We recommend the reading of it to every individual concerned about such matters.

A sound economic basis for these solutions is given by Mr. McKitterick.

Earlier, we mentioned the suggestions given us by Brother Oliver, foreman of Wurster Hall. Here is a commendatory letter sent to him from the Department of Environmental Health and Safety:

Mr. Carl Oliver, Grounds and Buildings:

The Office of EH&S sincerely appreciates your interest in safety and accident prevention.

The special attention that you have given to the facilities in Wurster Hall has proven to be most helpful and beneficial. This alertness has revealed to us many unsafe conditions.

You have recently influenced actions by the responsible individuals to provide a safe, clean and healthful area for work and study. You are to be commended because this was done in addition to your normal job obligations.

THEODORE FELTON, Environmental Health and Safety.

Watchmakers Local 101

BY GEORGE F. ALLEN

Due to the May 30 holiday this week, there is not much to report. I did appear at a Labor Commission hearing in support of one of our members on Monday, May 29. I feel reasonably sure the member will receive the labor commissioner's award; however, whether or not he can collect due to the employer's financial situation is questionable. We shall follow up this case to the best of our ability.

SAN FRANCISCO MEETING

The next membership meeting will be held on Thursday, June 15 at 7:30 p.m., Union Office, 693 Mission St., Suite 707, San Francisco.

JOSEPH I. KELLY of the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission will address the Sunset Parkside Democratic Club at 8 p.m. Tuesday at 2 Castro, S.F.

Carpenters Credit Union

BY PAUL HUDGINS

We put up bail to get a Carpenter out of jail the other day. It was easy to do because he had been saving regularly for some time. He phoned the credit union, and we put up the money.

We wired $500 to Oklahoma City for a member whose car broke down while on a vacation trip. There was no problem because he had been saving regularly at his credit union.

We can OK a new car deal on Saturday for an established member. This happens quite often. The dealer accepts our OK over the phone and delivers the car.

You can borrow far more than you have put in if you have established a pattern of regular saving. The fact that you are able to save something out of every paycheck is an indication to the Loan Committee that you will be able to make payments.

In other words, it pays to join and start saving before you need the loan. At the same time, we do make some loans to new members who join and apply for the loan at the same time.

Your credit union is here to save you dollars on interest when you find it necessary to borrow, or advantageous to finance cars and other purchases. It's cooperative finance for the mutual benefit of the members.

You can join by mail, save by mail and borrow by mail. The address is 3361 MacArthur Blvd., Oakland, phone 533-3889.

Union Labor Post 1917

BY JAMES HAYWORTH, CMDR

A word from the quartermaster's corner:

I'll pass on to the members of this post a portion of a recent phone call from our good friend "Tex" Pangborn. He said that he went down to the Veteran's Building for the meeting and found the usual lack of interest demonstrated by the fact that there were so few in attendance they could not call a meeting. "Tex" did mention seeing Bob Bury, Les Nider and Bill Carpenter. It seems that after a round table discussion, it was decided there was little else to do but to legally "fold up" the post.

It is indeed a shame that a combination of veterans and union members cannot be found in numbers enough to support such a post. In fact, the veterans need not actually be union members, but friendly toward organized labor. But as Walter Cronkite says, "That's the way it is."

With this in mind, fellows, let me urge you to be present on June 16, 1967, at what promises to be our last meeting. I'm sure there will be generous donations to V.F.W. charities from our funds, so if you want a say in this, plan on being present.

Retail Clerks Local 870

BY CHARLES F. JONES

After lengthy hearings, and after charges and appeals were filed, a date has finally been set for NLRB elections to be held in eight F. W. Woolworth stores in Alameda County. On July 7, and in conjunction with the Local Joint Board of Culinary Workers Local 823, individual elections will be conducted in the following Woolworth locations:

Bayfair Shopping Center, San Leandro; Fremont Hub, Fremont; Southland Shopping Center, Hayward; Fairway Park, Center, Oakland; Southshore Center, Alameda; Park Street, Alameda; Second Street, Livermore.

Salespeople in all of the stores will vote for Retail Clerks Union, Local 870, or no union. People employed in the fountain in the Alameda and Oakland stores will have an opportunity to cast their ballot for the Local Joint Board of Culinary Workers. The fountain employees in the balance of the stores will have an opportunity to vote for Local 823. This organizational drive started almost two years ago, and during this period of time the union was confronted with many obstacles. All of the involved unions are hopeful for a complete victory.

IN MEMORIAM

We extend our deepest sympathy to the family of Brother Bryan R. Burnett (Safeway Stores) who was killed in an accident on May 29, 1967.

Machinist Auxiliary

BY SYLVIA PETERSON

Our 50th anniversary was celebrated on Friday evening, May 19. It was a very happy occasion, especially for our older members who had a chance to visit with long-standing members and old friends.

Sister Eva Gallagher, one of the charter members, was honored with a 50 year pin. It was a memorable night for Eva, and she was very proud as she had all her family with her for this very special occasion. We were very sorry that another charter member, Sister Rachel Jacques, could not be present to receive her pin. Sister Jacques now resides in El Cajon.

A 10 year pin was presented to sister Dorothy Antone, and Sister Marie Dixon was recognized for her 49 years of membership.

We were honored to have our International Vice President, Sister Gladys Cleveland, here with use from Bremerton, Wash. Also present from out of town to help us celebrate was Sister Catherine Stewart and her husband, Frank, from Clear Lake; Sister Jessie Robbins and husband J. S. from Santa Rosa, and Sister Virginia Nickoles and daughter Viola from Los Altos.

Present also were many old time members, visitors from our sister lodges in San Francisco, Richmond and Vallejo, and from the Women's Labor Temple Auxiliary of Oakland.

Chairman for the evening was Sister Opal Lawrence. Opal and her committee did an outstanding job on the decorations, entertainment and food. The entertainment for the evening was the music of the Mission Bell Rhythm Makers.

The evening was a big success due in part to the efficiency of our attractive President Sister Virginia Garcia, who kept the events flowing smoothly.

Next meeting will be on June 16. No meetings in July.

Remember to look for the Union Label.

642's Straight Line

BY MARVIN MARTIN

We have been advised by General Representative Brother Clarence Briggs that the Constitution and Laws, as amended Jan. 1, 1967, will remain in full force and effect. The increase of 60 cents in per capita tax effective July 1, 1967, is an automatic increase in the local's union dues. Therefore, July, 1967, dues will be in the amount of $7.85 for construction carpenters. Maintenance carpenters will pay $5.85, effective July 1.

Politics seem to be the order of the day around 642 these days. Everything being used from 11 by 14 cards to telephone rings.

Remember the date: June 15 is on Thursday. The polls will be open from 2 to 8 o'clock p.m. Be sure and come out and vote for your favorite candidate. Let's have a majority vote for one time at Local 642. We sent out over 900 notices for this election. The largest turnout that I can think of was just a few over 400, or less than 50 per cent.

THE TURNABOUT

The non-union man may join the enemy to defeat shorter hours and better wages but when he has lost his fight and the unions have triumphed, he is always the first man to demand the rewards of another's efforts and to profit from the courage and devotion from the men he did his best to defeat and betray." —Clarence Darrow.

We were sorry to hear of the death of Brother Edward R. Rudd, who had retired in recent years and had moved to Bovey, Minn. He passed away on Memorial Day, May 30. He was born in 1904, was initiated into the Brotherhood in 1943 and had remained a member since that time.

We were also grieved to hear of the death of Mabel Ann Larson, the wife of Brother Randolph D. Larson, who passed away on June 1, at age 43. Our deepest sympathy to this brother and the family.

LEONARD LEVY of the Clothing Workers will discuss "The Vietnam War and Labor Opposition" at 7:30 p.m. June 20 at 26 7th Sts., San Francisco.

Chips and Chatter

BY GUNNAR (BENNY) BENONYS

Even with the unusual June rains, the Carpenters' out-of-work list dropped down again this week. We are now down to 219!

Job referrals are on the increase for the third consecutive week.

We now have 347 of our members on the contract pension, with the following approved for May:

Wayne L. Biehn, Lester Blevins, John G. Carlson, Arthur Frostholt, Lawrence W. Garcia, Claude F. Johnson, Jerry Lawrence, Alfred G. March, Hans P. Nerheim, Domenic Sabella, G. S. Schiager, Gilbert W. Thompson and Levon W. Williams.

The apprentice completion ceremony was a real success. We are all proud of our 27 apprentices who became journeymen. We look forward to their continued progress.

Reported on the sick list are: Baylor Leatherwood, Marshall Simmons, Donald C. Renfro, Warner Dailey, William A. Kaufman, Calvin Scott, Beverly Winnie.

Regret to report the passing of Brother Philip F. Phillips of Alameda.

Business Agent Al Thoman made an interesting and detailed report on the State Referees Association meeting in Fresno. The information he gathered there will be very valuable to our members in processing their claims for unemployment and compensation appeals.

Brothers, the normal election times are here again. You'll see all kinds of literature and cards. The most important items in this election are your local union ballot and your own individual vote! Don't lose it by not voting. Be sure to be present and vote on Friday, June 16, 1967. Polls are open 12 noon to 10 p.m.

See you at the next meeting.

Steel Machinists 1304

BY DAVE ARCA

Hi. Hope springs eternal in the human breast. Like those convicts tunneling toward freedom. It matters not the tunnel turned back toward their cells. Until they were discovered, these convicts had hope.

We have hope, too. Not for escape. For survival.

When union members trusted union officers, we were strong. Not so now. TV and newspapers have influenced our members against us.

Last November, when workers embraced philosophies foreign to unionism, they failed to look beyond the immediate fling. Now the pleasure of promiscuity is forgotten with the pain of consequences. It's an old, old story. Our present tax increases are only the beginning of a pregnancy. During the gestation, anti-union legislation will appear. Unless aborted, it will be born into law.

Anti-union forces father these acts. The degree of rape will depend upon individual consent.

Today, compassion, equality and justice is obtained according to income. But today's income is diluted by taxation. Percentage-wise, the meek shall inherit a greater share of tax liabilities. Yet hope springs eternal. Someday we may again find members listening to our warnings and recommendations. When this is a fact, we'll be strong. Okay? Okay.

Lt. governor says labor should switch to G.O.P.

Lieutenant Governor Robert H. Finch recently urged organized labor to switch its allegiance to the Republican Party.

The lieutenant governor is oversimplifying things. Aside from the obvious fact that many union members voted for Governor Ronald Reagan and Lieutenant Governor Finch, the fact is that labor as an organization is not wedded to any political party.

We do lean toward Democrats, and with good reason. Most support the things we are for more often than most Republicans do.

Finch said a couple of things that are true. But the conclusion he drew from them is a gross distortion of the facts.

The lieutenant governor told a Steelworkers' legislative conference in Sacramento that the Democrats have taken labor support for granted during recent years—which is true in many cases.

He said that, for this reason, labor has lost "political muscle" by remaining loyal to Democrats—which is also true.

Finch said he would be the first to admit that the Republicans have not made it easy "for labor to take part"—which is the understatement of the year, especially coming from a leading member of the Reagan Administration.

His promise to try to change this could not have been sincere, unless the Reagan Administration has done a complete about-face in its labor policy without telling the public. And this is impossible to believe.

For the Reagan Administration has shattered all precedents by, among other things:

- Naming a management consultant who was an anti-labor member of the Eisenhower NLRB as state director of industrial relations, a post traditionally filled by a unionist to help protect the interests of working people.

- Appointing as state labor commissioner a business executive who recently was fighting employee wage claims before the labor commission and naming many others hostile to unions to state posts.

- Attacking the state's high standards of college education and mental care—both fields in which unions and their members have a strong interest.

- Sponsoring legislation that would have unnecessarily hamstrung legitimate union operations, in an effort reminiscent of the 1958 "right-to-work" proposal, whose real purpose was far different from its announced intent.

On the national scene, Republican members of Congress have adopted a policy of indiscriminately attacking liberal programs in a cynical campaign to capture votes.

We don't profess to have the answers to all of organized labor's political problems.

Some people believe we should be more selective in our endorsements, giving our help only to those Democrats or Republicans who earn it by their positive support of the programs we support.

But others feel we should endorse the best candidate in each race from labor's point of view, on the assumption that union members will vote for one of the other, and in some cases want advice on which is the better of two candidates.

In Sacramento right now, some Democrats are trying to work both sides of the street, while a few Republicans have supported a number of programs favored by labor.

This would indicate that perhaps we should be a little choosy when endorsements are passed out next year.

'Little Rumford Act'

John J. Miller, Jr., the Berkeley Democrat who succeeded W. Byron Rumford as representative of Alameda County's 17th District in the California Assembly, is the author of a measure which has been called the "Little Rumford Act."

This measure would deny state income tax exemptions from private clubs with written policies of discrimination because of race, religion or national origin.

Miller said the measure was suggested by members of the Oakland Elks Club who want to open the organization to Negroes.

The Berkeley assemblyman stressed that private clubs could still discriminate if they wanted to, but they could no longer enjoy income tax exemption, which is, in effect, a government gift of subsidy.

One legislator, a liberal Republican, has even suggested that Miller's measure be strengthened.

Will the bigots now try to defeat the bill by claiming that a man's club is his castle?

'This Should Be Enough!'

HEALTH GROUP SEEKING BETTER, CHEAPER CARE

By C. R. BARTALINI

The California Council for Health Plan Alternatives has made inquiries which have verified the conclusions of a special Blue Ribbon committee six years ago.

Both found that health services are inadequate, uncoordinated, poorly organized and badly distributed. Regarding the poor distribution of facilities, for example, the council noted that at the very moment a Los Angeles regional health planning committee was complaining that there was too much bed capacity in its affiliated hospitals, there was not one single approved hospital bed in the Watts ghetto.

The council finds that there is a mixup of federal, state and local government activities and a variety of private groups developing programs to meet special needs which result in a patchwork that displays serious overlapping of facilities and services in some situations and serious gaps in others.

COMMUNITY FACILITIES

Californians, the council notes, still lack the kinds of community facilities people need before going to the hospital or after leaving it—such as home care, nursing visits, social services, rehabilitation, homemaker services and out-patient care. People are often placed in hospitals simply because there is no other more appropriate and perhaps less expensive community facility to supply treatment.

Union members and their families obviously have a direct and intimate stake in health care planning, and the Council for Health Plan Alternatives sees this as an area in which organized labor must increasingly participate.

HEALTH CARE ECONOMICS

In the council's view, organized labor must get to know a lot more than it does now about the economics of health care so that it can more effectively deal with the problems of constantly rising doctor and hospital bills.

The council, for instance, is interested in the case of one Southern California hospital which budgeted a 60 per cent occupancy rate in July and 70 per cent in August. It figured this would yield a net profit of 99 cents per patient day in July and $1.41 in August, since costs fall as occupancy rises. Actually, the hospital earned $6.03 per patient day in July and $6.90 in August.

Shortly afterward this hospital announced an $8 a day increase in rates. Is the increase justified? Under present circumstances, nobody outside the hospital can really say. But the council feels that many of the most serious problems of labor's health plans cannot be solved until the mystery that has been built up around health service costs is dispelled.

That's why the chairman of the council testified recently before a fact-finding panel in a nurses' pay dispute that the council will insist on full public disclosure of the price structure in the health care industry "until we can achieve some public understanding of what constitutes 'reasonable' costs and charges for health care."

But costs is not the only, and may not even be the main, concern of the council; it has at least equal interest in the quality aspects of the health care union families receive.

The labor group is also paying careful attention to the provisions for licensing and accreditation of medical facilities which have been incorporated in the new governmental health programs such as Medicare and Medi-Cal and wondering why the health programs for which union plans pay should continue to use facilities which are not licensed and accredited under the government programs.

The council is conceived, not as a massive new apparatus to supplant labor's existing health programs, but as a center of joint activity to work with the existing programs and improve them.

Its long-range perspectives include helping unions to acquire necessary financing for worthwhile new programs or medical facilities, possibly through loans from the pension reserves; encouraging, where feasible, prepaid programs under which unions and medical groups would negotiate comprehensive health care for union members and their families; investigation of all aspects of self-insurance, the possible economies of pooling various funds, and ways to reduce present administrative, "loading" and brokerage costs, and examination of ways to extend health care protection to unemployed members for longer periods.

NATION CANNOT AFFORD ROMNEYISM

Editor, Labor Journal:

Once again the political hopefuls are jumping on the bandstands across the nation to advise us that they and only they can save the country from disaster. If we take the time to examine these politicians and their complete backgrounds and that of their families and their past interests, we can well anticipate the future actions of the man after he is in office; and we should not be disappointed because as a man the politician follows the family trait.

One such political aspirant is Governor George Romney (Republican) of Michigan. Governor Romney is attempting to convince the public that he and only he is capable of sitting in the President's chair; however after bringing family history up to date, it could well be anticipated that George would disagree with the Republican Party's nominee and disagree with the whole Republican Party except for the few who torpedoed the whole convention.

We could overlook this if it weren't for the fact that George on a number of occasions has disagreed at the governor's conventions; and, of course, he first agrees with the way President Johnson is handling the Vietnam situation, but the next week, George disagrees again. On the United States exhibit at the Canadian Exposition in Montreal, apparently no one consulted George; once again George disagrees with the exhibit.

George is a very compassionate person, as his tax and other proposals tend to prove. His income tax for Michigan would be a flat rate of 2½ per cent, not to exceed $15,000 taxable income. He has asked a 60 per cent increase in auto license fees, based on weight alone. Thus the poor again pay George's share. He has asked a 5 per cent business tax, 7½ per cent on financial institutions, additional gasoline tax—this with several other taxes and a 1 per cent increase in sales tax since George got to be governor four years ago. This is not to mention that this income comes close to being double the state budget that the Democrats were managing very well on. I will now quote a recent article in the Detroit Free Press, which places the blame for the state's need for such an enormous tax increase. In the past four years, the management of the state's finances has been inept: quote, "inept, not fitting, unsuitable, awkward."

One of George's greatest deeds outside of saddling the state with the highest taxes ever is his proposal to pay off the bonds on the Mackinac Straits Bridge with the taxpayers' money. (The bridge is paying its way through tolls.) This being soundly discouraged, he proposes to sell bonds at a higher rate of interest to pay off the present bond issue so he can lower the toll. This would sound like Rube Goldberg if it weren't for the fact that the bridge bonds were sold around 10 years ago, and interest rates were 1 to 2 per cent lower than present rates. Once again George shows where his heart and main interests are. Yes, once again by studying family background and family history, we may anticipate the actions of the man. The big question: Can we afford him? The facts seem to say no, we cannot afford Romneyism.

State labor press association hits LBJ mail rate hike plan

The California Labor Press Association has expressed alarm at a provision in the Johnson Administration's postal rate bill that would increase the piece rate on non-profit second class mail.

In a resolution adopted unanimously at its recent convention in San Diego, the association emphasized that it is not flatly opposed to any increase.

But it said it was "shocked at the proposal to impose such a disproportionate burden on non-profit second class mail since it would very likely make it impossible for a number of California labor publications to continue to publish.

The measure, H.R. 7977, would raise the piece rate on non-profit second class mail from the present one-eighth of a cent a copy to one-fifth of a cent a copy.

200 PUBLICATIONS

The association, which spoke on behalf of more than 200 labor publications in the state, pointed out that this would be a 60 per cent increase—three times the 20 per cent increase proposed generally for other classes of mail.

"These publications receive little advertising and are generally devoted to the goal of keeping union members informed on matters socially and economically important to them—a vital function in a democracy," the resolution said, adding:

"Moreover, the revenue to be gained from such a disproportionate increase in non-profit second class mail rates is relatively miniscule."

The association urged the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee in particular, and Congress in general, to avoid the "unjust and discriminatory" increase.

Reunion planned by 48th Seabees

The 48th Naval Construction Battalion, which includes many members of organized labor from this area, will hold its annual reunion July 1-3 at the Jack London Inn, Oakland.

The 48th Seabees was formed Nov. 13, 1942, by 193 Bay Area men. Later, other units joined from Southern California and various states. After training, the battalion served its entire tour of duty in the South Pacific.

Louis P. Montbrun of Oakland, George Alvarado of Berkeley and Mario DeTomasi of South San Francisco are on the reunion committee.

Montbrun, a delegate to the Alameda County Building Trades Council from Painters 127, said men from other Seabee units are invited to drop in.

Laundry Drivers to appeal NLRB examiner's ruling

Laundry and Dry Cleaning Drivers 209 plans to appeal the ruling of a National Labor Relations Board trial examiner that it engaged in unfair labor practices by threatening one of its members, Max Wilson.

Wilson, an independent dry cleaning contractor, was threatened with disciplinary action by the union, a Teamsters' affiliate, because he continued to do business with Jacob Cross, owner of Complete Cleaners, a San Leandro firm, during a dispute.

NLRB Examiner Irving Rogosin ordered Local 209 to cease and desist. The complaint was filed by the East Bay Counties Dry Cleaners Association.

Bigelow wins fifth term as president of Ashland Fire Fighters Local 1428

John Bigelow was elected to his fifth term as president of Ashland Fire Fighters 1428 in recent balloting.

Under a new procedure, officers will serve for two year terms. Donald Costa was elected for his second term as secretary. Others elected included:

David Souza, vice-president; Conrad Olsson, treasurer; Tony Rebieto, guide; Ed Reese, David Catano and Tom Green, trustees; David Catano and John Bigelow, shop stewards, and Catano and Bigelow, delegates to Central Labor Council.

Bigelow and Catano will attend a seminar sponsored by the International Association of Fire Fighters at the University of California June 18-22.

AFSCME leader hits new Reagan mental health cuts

A special meeting with Governor Ronald Reagan to protest his "further unwarranted attacks on the Department of Mental Hygiene and our state mental rehabilitation program" has been asked by a leader of an AFLCIO union.

Clem Regner, area director for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, said:

"Governor Reagan's staff have announced plans to close employee dining rooms in mental hospitals throughout the state.

"While this may seem to be only one of many cuts in this department, it illustrates the complete lack of concern that Governor Reagan's office has for the programs carried out by the Department of Mental Hygiene and the employees involved.

"It is one more illustration of this administration's complete disregard for the welfare of the programs carried out by this department."

STRIKE SANCTION GRANTED
Strike sanction or support was voted by Labor Council delegates in several other disputes.

• To Automotive Machinists 1546 against the Northern California Dairy Industry Labor Relations Association, which includes Arden, Carnation, Challenge and Foremost, now struck and importing strikebreakers in Southern California.

• To Warehousemen 853 against the Distributors Association of Northern California, Northern California Suppliers Association, Retail Furniture Council, United Employers, and a large number of individual firms.

• To Automotive Teamsters 78 against the Downtown Merchants Parking Association in Oakland.

• To Hayward Culinary Workers 823 against Snack Bar Enterprises, which operates a concession in the Gemco department store, San Leandro.

In several of the disputes, special committees were appointed to assist in settlement attempts.

PARACHUTE TALKS

Assistant Secretary Wray Jacobs reported that negotiations between Upholsterers 28 and Security Parachute Co., San Leandro, are lagging, with the union committee unable to obtain company consent to any of the important contract items.

Jacob said the firm is already threatening the union that it will resist economic action on grounds it is a national defense contractor.

However, Jacobs added, the union has offered to arbitrate certain key issues, with no response from the company.

SAN LEANDRO ELECTION

The Labor Council voted to concur in a request by San Leandro Teachers 1285 for support of a tax increase measure for San Leandro schools.

Representatives of the union told the council's Executive Committee that San Leandro school tax is now the second lowest in Alameda County, and the school district faces curtailment of elective subjects and loss of personnel. Even the 54 cent increase which would be authorized if the measure passes would not put San Leandro among the high tax districts.

The council authorized appointment of a committee to assist Fremont Teachers 1494 in its dispute over the school district's refusal to rehire a teacher, despite findings by a state hearing officer that its charges were without foundation.

Richard J. Travers, representing the local, told the Executive Committee the charges were "frivolous" and included "eating an apple in an unauthorized place."

Tim Twomey, president of Hospital Workers 250, reported that his union had won a collective bargaining election at Bancroft Convalescent Hospital, 14 to 4.
